

Cristina Pacheco
Independent Future Executive Senior Sales Director

My name is Cristina Pacheco, and I am an Independent Future Executive Senior Sales Director. I was first introduced to the Mary Kay opportunity when I was invited to attend a skin care class. Impressed with the products as well as the women, I signed my Independent Beauty Consultant Agreement that night. I was so excited for the chance to be my own boss, improve my overall appearance and develop my professional skills. At the time, I was on the verge of getting a promotion at my full-time job, but I began to question my future as I could foresee an increase in my workload and stress level.

My Independent Sales Director took me under her wing, and within a few short months of starting my business, I managed to earn the use of my first Career Car. I am still amazed at how every aspect of this business offers so many opportunities to myself and other women. The prizes offered at the end of each goal keep me motivated to finish and succeed. More than the prizes, I love the relationships I'm building through my business. The support and encouragement from the other Independent Sales Directors mean so much to me.

My Mary Kay business has impacted my life enormously. I feel more confident and have faith in every woman I meet. Because of my success, I am able to provide vacations for my family, pay for my children's college education and save for retirement.

The joy that has come from having my own Mary Kay business is contagious. I'm now a more positive person – pursuing my dreams, one by one.
