Independent Executive Senior Sales Director

No corporate job can compare. My Mary Kay business fulfills me mentally, physically, monetarily and spiritually. My name is Annette Oxley, and I am an Independent Executive Senior Sales Director.

My Mary Kay business literally came out of nowhere. A Mary Kay Independent Beauty Consultant, whom I never had met before, offered to give me a facial. I not only thought the products were wonderful, I was also impressed with the warm, positive feeling the Beauty Consultant left me with. I wanted to share that feeling with others. It seemed the best way to accomplish that was to become a Mary Kay Independent Beauty Consultant myself.

Having grown up on a dairy farm, I learned the importance of a good work ethic early. I think being a hard worker is a major contributor to my success. My success in my business helps me set a good example for my children and has helped me to give my family things like trips to Disneyland and Hawaii, a swimming pool and a camper. One of my proudest moments was when I first earned the use of a Mary Kay Career Car and was able to have my mom and dad present when I picked it up.

The favorite part of my Mary Kay business is helping other women build self-confidence and letting them know they have choices. I love touching the lives of and working with women of faith and integrity, and watching some of those women become Independent Sales Directors themselves.

I still milk cows on our farm from time to time. And when I do, I think about how far I've come and how far I can help others go too.
